

DIRECTORY OF CONSULTING FORESTERS

For Washburn County
Wisconsin DNR, Bureau of Forestry
P.O. Box 7921, Madison, WI 53707

This Directory of Consulting Foresters lists foresters who have signed a Consulting Forester Cooperative Agreement with the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources. It identifies cooperating consulting foresters that provide service in this county. The Department of Natural Resources presents this listing with no intended endorsement of particular consultants, their qualifications, or a service rendered, nor is criticism implied of consultants not listed.

SELECTING A CONSULTING FORESTER

Consulting foresters offer a wide range of services. Forest landowners are encouraged to employ consulting foresters in all phases of forestry management with special emphasis on activities such as timber sale establishment and administration, contract enforcement, surveying and appraisals. The publication Hiring a Consulting Forester (Forestry Fact #75) is available from County UW-Extension offices or DNR offices.

When securing the services of a consultant, consider the following:

- Years and type of experience
- Education, professional forestry degree, technician training
- Professional affiliations-Assn. of Consulting Foresters, Society of American Foresters
- References from clients...including examples of previous work
- Association with a wood-using industry
- Does any wood-using firm have contractual rights to your merchantable timber?
- Fee structure for particular services-hourly, percentage, per acre basis
- Willingness to point out management alternatives and their consequences-biological, economic
- Availability of the consultant throughout the project
- Will an Industrial Forester help manage for only certain species and/or products? Which ones?

The consulting forester you hire should serve you and represent your best interests in all matters concerning your woodland. Make sure you have a written contract that spells out the working relationship in specific terms.

Over 9 million acres of forest land in Wisconsin are held by approximately 200,000 non-industrial private landowners. This highly productive and complex acreage represents almost 60% of Wisconsin's total forestry resource. If properly managed, the resource can easily double in productivity and economic return by growing a continuous supply of forestry products. This same forest land provides high value wildlife habitat, protects watersheds and prevents erosion, provides desirable aesthetic areas, and provides satisfying recreational pursuits to the owner's family and friends.

As a Wisconsin forest land owner, you control a resource vital to our economic and social well being. Wisconsin's wood-using industry employs about 283,000 people which contributes 10 billion dollars to the economy through harvesting, manufacture, and shipment. This makes the wood-using industry the second largest industry in the state and the largest paper producer in the nation.

In managing a forest, two considerations are of major importance: its biological limits and the owners objectives. They will determine how and what management practices are applied and the productive potential of the forest. A professional forester has the skill and the knowledge to assess your forest and develop an appropriate management plan.
